Soutbank & Bankside Overview

The Southbank and Bankside area stretches over two square miles along the southern bank of the River Thames. It houses a number of important cultural buildings and institutions as well as commercial office buildings and a few mixed residential housing developments.

The area sits within the boroughs of both Lambeth and Southwark but many parts of the Southbank are divided up by the private organisations and agencies that own and manage the land. This can make it tricky to film along the whole of the river bank as you may need to seek permission from more than one organisation depending on where you place your camera.

The following maps cover the entire Southbank area and beyond from Westminster Bridge to Tower Bridge, they detail the relevant boundaries for each organisation together with information on who to contact to film in that particular area.
